

This copy is not for sale

A

No. 65 APR/MAY 2013 LL10,000

Hurts so good

When fashion fires up your senses

Fashion A celebration of British style Beauty Skincare for your private parts Hotels Luxe properties in London, Montreal and Muscat Art or architecture? New work by Zaha Hadid and Antony Gormley Movies Premium theaters for Lebanon Cities Beirut's Port District

Just in Vienna

Lobmeyr (right)

Every year, Viennese glass manufacturer Lobmeyr invites an artist or designer to create a unique piece. This time around, London-based designer Michael Anastassiades has imagined a lamp in the shape of intermingling crystal globes that evokes the human eye.

Visit www.lobmeyr.at

Franz West (below)

This retrospective of the late, great Austrian artist Franz West's work includes furniture, sculpture, video and work on paper.

On view until May 26 at MUMOK, MuseumsQuartier, 1 Museumplatz, tel. 43.1.525.00, www.mumok.at

Puff Bar (below)

A former haunt of Vienna's ladies of the night, Puff Bar has received a design makeover by Walking Chair, transforming it into the city's hottest nightspot. The room is lit by 99 LED lights, which shine in 20 different colors and are controlled by 99 remotes.

10 Girardigasse, tel. 43.664.534.6564, puff-bar.at

Sans Souci (below)

Late 2012 saw the opening of Sans Souci, a boutique hotel with interiors designed by yoo. The luxurious Vienna property houses 63 rooms and suites, a spa and La Véranda restaurant. 1 Museumstrasse, tel. 43.1.522.2520, www.sanssouci-wien.com

Chez Cliché (above)

A chic alternative to hotels, Chez Cliché offers designer rooms and apartments inspired by well-known artistic and cultural figures. The Koloman apartment, for example, is styled like a stage because the late Austrian artist Koloman Moser loved theater.

Tel. 43.1.943.6948, www.chezcliche.com