

ELEMENTS

The Things That Make Great Spaces

Star Power

With references to the Big Bang theory and far-flung galaxies, the most celestial of chandeliers, Lobmeyr's Met Series, was originally designed in 1966 by Hans Harald Rath for Lincoln Center's Metropolitan Opera House.

| From a collection, ranging in price from $15,217–$203,475.

E.R. Butler & Co., Boston, erbutler.com

Never a Dull Moment

Though fashion and furnishings have always shared a certain synergy, fashion has historically taken the lead in the style arena. If embroidery was seen on the catwalk during a particular season, chances were good that an embroidered toss cushion would appear in the home furnishings market six months later.

But thanks to a more sophisticated approach to home, coupled with the ability to choose from a global marketplace, the home market now keeps pace with its fashion sibling, stylish similarities occurring simultaneously.

As the season of shine, sparkle, and shimmer arrives, interiors glow as brightly as a pair of gold lamé pants or diamond-encrusted earrings.

| EDITED BY CHERYL AND JEFFREY KATZ |